VII. IMPORTANT JUDGMENTS

1. Court rulings

There were no major Court rulings in 2019 in this area.

2. Preliminary rulings

The Court gave the following preliminary rulings:

- Germany: Where EU customs regulations require providing a specific indication of the country of origin for a product (in the present case, cultivated mushrooms that had been relocated during the growing process), the country of origin is that where the product was harvested and that indication as such cannot be regarded as misleading consumers. In such circumstances, no obligations may be imposed on the food business operators to provide information additional to the indication of the country of origin in order to prevent any alleged risk of misleading consumers³.

- Germany: The protection of the name 'Aceto Balsamico di Modena (PGI)', entered in the register of protected designations of origin and protected geographical indications, does not extend to the use of the individual non-geographical terms of that name, namely 'aceto' and 'balsamico'⁴.
- Lithuania: A national legislation aiming to combat unfair commercial practices may prohibit buyers of raw milk to pay a different purchase price to producers who, on the basis of the daily quantity of raw milk sold that is of identical composition and quality and delivered via the same method, must be regarded as belonging to the same group, in so far as those rules are appropriate to attain the objective pursued and do not go beyond what is necessary to achieve that objective⁵.
- Spain: Figurative signs may trigger directly in the consumer's mind the image of products whose designation of origin is protected, on account of their 'conceptual proximity' to such a designation. Consequently, a protected designation of origin, such as 'queso manchego', may be evoked through the use of figurative signs, including where such figurative signs are used by a producer established in the geographical area associated with the designation of origin, but whose products, similar or comparable to those protected by the designation of origin, are not covered by it⁶.

VIII. OUTLOOK

Important implementation work in 2020 includes:

- continuing to use the clearance of accounts procedure in the agricultural sector to convince Member States to adapt their management and control systems if an infringement is detected through conformity audit mechanisms.
- preparing the transposition of the Unfair Trading Practices Directive¹⁰.

VI. EARLY RESOLUTION OF INFRINGEMENT CASES

[There were no major cases closed without a Court judgment in 2019.]

VII. IMPORTANT JUDGMENTS

1. Court rulings

The Court gave the following ruling:

- Belgium did not fulfil its obligations under EU law by notifying to the Commission only partial transposition measures for the Directive on measures to reduce the cost of deploying high-speed electronic communications networks¹⁸ with respect to the region of Bruxelles-Capitale. The Court applied for the first time the sanction mechanism of Article 260(3) TFEU. This Treaty provision allows the Commission to request the Court to impose financial penalties if Member States fail to fulfil their obligation to notify measures transposing a directive adopted under a legislative procedure. In addition to clarifying that the sanction scheme of Article 260(3) TFEU may also be applied to cases of partial failure to adopt and communicate transposition measures, the Court held that, when notifying national transposition measures to the Commission, Member States must provide sufficiently clear and precise information and state, for each provision of the directive, the national provision(s) ensuring its transposition¹⁹.

2. Preliminary rulings

The Court gave the following preliminary rulings:

- Belgium: SkypeOut service should be considered an electronic communications service. As a result, SkypeOut is subject to telecoms legislation, in particular to the general authorisation regime. Services offered via software, such as SkypeOut, which allow calling numbers in a national numbering plan, constitute electronic communication services²⁰.
- Germany: freedom of information and freedom of the press cannot justify a derogation from the author's exclusive rights of reproduction and of communication to the public going beyond the exceptions or limitations provided for in EU law²¹.
- Germany: a phonogram producer can prevent the use of a sound sample of his or her phonogram in another phonogram. However, such a sample can be used, if it is included in the phonogram in a modified form unrecognisable to the ear²².
- Germany: The Gmail service should not be considered as consisting wholly or mainly in the 'conveyance of signals'. As a result, Gmail is not an electronic communications service, and is therefore not subject to the general authorisation regime under the current EU telecoms legislation²³.
- France: Airbnb provides an information society service separate from accommodation services to which it relates. Such a service does not aim only at providing immediate accommodation services, but rather it consists essentially of providing a tool for presenting and finding accommodation for rent, thereby facilitating the conclusion of future rental agreements. Therefore, that type of service is not merely ancillary to an overall accommodation service. Second, an intermediation service, such as the one provided by Airbnb Ireland, is in no way indispensable to the provision of accommodation services, since the guests and hosts have a number of other channels in that respect, some of which are long-standing. Finally, there is no indication that Airbnb sets or caps the amount of the rents charged by the hosts using that platform²⁴.

- Lithuania: A Member State may, on grounds of public policy, such as in the specific circumstances combating the incitement to hatred of the Baltic States based on nationality, impose a requirement to temporarily distribute or retransmit a television channel from another Member State only in pay-to-view packages²⁵.
- Lithuania: Telecommunications companies are required to transmit location information for free to the 112 emergency call authorities, even if the call is received from a mobile phone which is not equipped with a SIM card. When determining accuracy and reliability criteria, Member States need to ensure that the location information is useful for emergency services to intervene²⁶.
- The Netherlands: The sale of second-hand e-books through a website constitutes a communication to the public that is subject to authorisation by the author²⁷.
- Portugal: Member States cannot add additional requirements (such as a specific, aesthetically significant visual effect) for granting copyright protection to designs, such as the clothing designs of jeans, which already meet the requirements for copyright protection under EU law²⁸.

VIII. OUTLOOK

Important implementation work in 2020 includes monitoring the complete and correct implementation of:

- the European Electronic Communications Code²⁹;

- Spain: incompatibility of national rules on paid annual leave with EU labour legislation³⁵.

VII. IMPORTANT JUDGMENTS

1. Court rulings

There were no major Court rulings in 2019 in this area.

2. Preliminary rulings

The Court gave the following preliminary rulings:

- Italy: the Court of Justice confirmed that Member States are obliged, under the Fixed-Term Work Directive, to provide effective measures designed to prevent and punish the misuse of successive fixed-term employment contracts.⁴⁰
- Belgium: the Court of Justice ruled that the circumstance that the transferee has a choice whether to dismiss employees goes against the objective of the Directive on transfer of undertakings, which provides that dismissals due to the transfer are prohibited⁴¹.
- Slovenia: the Court of Justice clarified that a transfer of financial instruments and other client assets between stock exchange intermediaries may constitute a transfer within the meaning of the Directive on transfer of undertakings where there is a transfer of clients⁴².
- Greece: the Court of Justice concluded that the Directive on transfer of undertakings may, under certain conditions, apply in a situation where the transferor, the transferee or both envisage not only the pursuit of the activity transferred, but also the future liquidation of the transferee itself⁴³.
- Germany: the Court of Justice stated that, in case of insolvency of the employer, a reduction in a former employee's old-age benefits must be regarded as being manifestly disproportionate if that person is living, or would have to live, below the at-risk-of-poverty threshold determined by Eurostat for the Member State concerned⁴⁴.
- Spain: the Court of Justice ruled that, on the basis of the Working Time Directive and in the light of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the EU, the Member States must require employers to set up an objective, reliable and accessible system enabling the duration of time worked each day by each worker to be measured⁴⁵.
- Spain: calculating the length of service of a part-time worker whose working hours are 'distributed vertically' over the whole year (a vertical cyclical part-time worker) solely on the basis of periods actually worked when it comes to the right to pay rise and promotion, while not doing the same for comparable full-time workers, may be discriminatory and therefore breach the Framework Agreement on Part-Time Work and the Equal Treatment Directive⁴⁶.
- Austria: the Court of Justice stated that the limitation on the recognition of previous periods of professionally relevant experience completed in another Member State for determining the entry salary for the migrant worker is possible only if the limitation applies equally to national and migrant workers and the work-related experience from another Member State is not fully comparable with the new employment position⁴⁷.

⁴⁶ Joined cases C-439/18 and C-472/18, OH/ER v AEAT.

⁴⁷ Case C-703/17 Krah.

- Austria: the fact that part-time workers, who would otherwise have been employed on open-ended contracts, could be employed on fixed-term contracts for longer periods of time than comparable full-time workers, could be contrary to the Framework Agreement on Part-Time Work (principle of non-discrimination). Such a situation may also constitute an indirect discrimination based on sex, to the extent that women are substantially overrepresented in the group of part-time workers on a fixed term contract under the Equal Treatment Directive⁴⁸.
- The Netherlands: The Court of Justice concluded that third-country nationals legally staying (but not residing) and working in a Member State are to be issued A1 certificates for their posting in other Member States⁴⁹.
- The Netherlands: the Court of Justice clarified in its judgment that a person residing in his/her own Member State, employed in another Member State but working in international waters falls under the applicable legislation of the Member State of residence of that person⁵⁰.
- Ireland: The Court of Justice clarified that it is not necessary for a person to pursue an activity as an employed person in a Member State in order to be entitled to family benefits if his or her children are living in another Member State⁵¹.

VIII. OUTLOOK

Energy

- Italy has failed to comply with the Radioactive Waste Directive since it has not notified a final adopted national programme for radioactive waste and spent fuel management⁸¹.
- The General Court annulled a 2016 Commission decision amending the conditions for an exemption granted by an earlier decision to the gas pipeline Ostseepipeline-Anbindungsleitung from the rules on third-party access and unbundling set out in the Gas Directive. The Court found that the Commission had failed to examine the impact of the revised exemption conditions on energy solidarity to determine whether they could negatively impact the interests of other Member States or the Union⁸².
- The General Court annulled on procedural grounds the decision of the European Agency for the Cooperation of Energy Regulators (ACER) on the capacity calculation regions which led to the split of the German-Austrian bidding zone, based on the reason that the Austrian regulatory authority had asked for an amendment of the proposal for the capacity calculation regions before the expiry of the six-month period during which the national regulatory authorities may approve the proposal⁸³.

2. Preliminary rulings

The Court gave the following preliminary rulings:

- Bulgaria: National legislation obliging apartment owners in buildings in co-ownership to pay for the thermal energy used by the common parts and the internal installation of the building is compatible with EU law, even though the owners do not use that thermal energy in their own apartments. In such buildings, the bills for thermal energy consumption by the internal installation are calculated for each property owner in the building in proportion to the heated volume of their apartment⁸⁴.
- Bulgaria: The Court gave guidance as to the relevant criteria under the Electricity Directive to distinguish between transmission and distribution systems⁸⁵.
- Finland: The Energy Efficiency Directive does not prevent energy companies from giving customers discounts to encourage the uptake of electronic billing delivery methods⁸⁶.
- France: The Gas Directive allows a regulatory authority settling a dispute between energy companies to extend the effects of its decision to the situation of the parties before the emergence of that dispute, by requiring one party to bring a contract for the transmission of natural gas in line with EU law for the entire contractual period⁸⁷.
- Italy: National legislation under which the amount of royalties payable by holders of licences for the extraction of natural gas is calculated on the basis of an index based on the prices of oil and other fuels in the medium and long term and not an index that reflects the short-term market price of natural gas is not incompatible with EU law⁸⁸.
- Spain: A financial contribution imposed on certain electricity generating undertakings to finance savings and energy efficiency plans managed by a public authority does not constitute a public service obligation under the Electricity Directive⁸⁹.
- Spain: National legislation may set taxes on the production and storage of nuclear fuel and waste which apply only to electricity-generating undertakings using nuclear energy and whose main objective is to increase the amount of revenue for the electricity financial system. Such legislation does not violate the principle of non-discrimination provided for by the Electricity Directive⁹⁰.

- Spain: EU law does not prohibit a tax on the use of inland waters for the production of electricity which does not incentivise the efficient use of water, nor establish mechanisms for the preservation and protection of public water resources, as it is focused solely and exclusively on the income-generating capacity of hydroelectricity producers. A tax on the use of inland waters to produce electricity which exclusively affects hydroelectricity generators operating in river basins encompassing more than one autonomous community and not those operating in river basins encompassing a single autonomous community is not considered discriminatory⁹¹.

VII. IMPORTANT JUDGMENTS

1. Court rulings

The Court gave the following rulings:

- Ireland has failed to comply with an earlier Court judgment¹⁷¹ requiring a remedial environmental impact assessment to be carried out for a large windfarm development in Derrybrien. The Court ordered Ireland to pay a lump sum of €5,000,000 and a periodic penalty payment of €15,000 for every day of delay until compliance is achieved¹⁷².
- Ireland has not complied with the requirements of the Urban Waste Water Treatment Directive in multiple agglomerations as it had failed to put in place compliant waste water collecting systems to tackle excessive spills from storm water overflows and failed to provide adequate treatment of urban waste waters¹⁷³.
- Spain has not adopted on time, as required by the Water Framework Directive, the second round of river basin management plans for Lanzarote, Fuerteventura, Gran Canaria, Tenerife, La Gomera, La Palma and El Hierro¹⁷⁴.
- France has systematically and persistently exceeded the limit values for nitrogen dioxide (NO₂) since 2010 in 12 agglomerations and air quality zones. It has also failed to take the appropriate measures to keep the exceedance period as short as possible¹⁷⁵.
- Croatia has breached the Waste Framework Directive as it did not classify as waste a large amount of stone-like material deposited in Biljane Donje, it did not take the necessary measures to ensure that waste management is carried out without endangering human health and harming the environment, and it did not ensure that the waste is properly treated by the waste holder¹⁷⁶.
- Italy has not fulfilled its obligations under the Landfill Directive as regards 44 landfills, by having failed to adopt all measures necessary to close or to bring those landfill sites into line with the Directive¹⁷⁷.
- Portugal has failed to fulfil its obligations under the Habitats Directive as it had not designated its Sites of Community Interest as Special Areas of Conservation and it had not established the necessary conservation measures for these zones¹⁷⁸.
- The Court dismissed the Commission's action against Czechia concerning its refusal to ensure the take-back of 20,000 tonnes of a mixture called TPS-NOLO (Geobal) shipped from Czechia to Poland. The Court found that the Commission did not provide sufficient evidence that the respective mixture constitutes waste and, thus, that its shipment constitutes a shipment of waste¹⁷⁹.

¹⁷⁸ Commission v Portugal, C-290/18.

¹⁷⁹ Commission v Czech Republic, C-399/17 and Court press release No 29/19.

- The Court dismissed the Commission's action against Spain concerning the adoption and/or revision of waste management plans. The Court found that the Commission had prematurely opened the pre-litigation stage of the infringement procedure and, consequently, dismissed the action as inadmissible¹⁸⁰.

2. Preliminary rulings

The Court gave the following preliminary rulings:

- Belgium: A decree by which a body of a Member State establishes, at regional level for its Natura 2000 network, conservation objectives which have an indicative value whereas the conservation objectives at site level have a statutory value is not a 'plan or programme', within the meaning of the Strategic Environmental Assessment Directive, for which an assessment under this Directive is mandatory¹⁸¹.
- Belgium: A decree whereby a Member State designates a Special Area of Conservation and makes provision for conservation objectives and certain preventive measures is not a 'plan or programme', within the meaning of the Strategic Environmental Assessment Directive, for which an assessment under this Directive is required¹⁸².
- Belgium: National courts have jurisdiction to review the choice of location of air quality measuring stations and to take all necessary measures against the national authority concerned. In assessing whether limit values have been complied with, the pollution level at each sampling point must be taken into account individually¹⁸³.
- Belgium: The Belgian law extending the operating life of nuclear power stations Doel 1 and Doel 2 was adopted without the required environmental assessments being carried out first. However, it is not excluded that the effects of the law on extension may provisionally be maintained where there is a genuine and serious threat of an interruption to electricity supply¹⁸⁴.
- Estonia: In the absence of criteria set at EU level to determine end-of-waste status for a specific type of waste, such end status depends on the existence of criteria laid down in a generally applicable national legal act concerning that type of waste¹⁸⁵.
- Germany: The coercive detention of a person at the head of the Land of Bavaria for the purpose of enjoining them to adopt measures to improve ambient air quality in Munich can be ordered only if a national legal basis, which is sufficiently accessible, precise and foreseeable in its application, exists and if the detention is proportionate¹⁸⁶.
- Germany: Residues in the form of scrap metal and fire-extinguishing water mixed with sludge and cargo residues, attributable to damage occurring on board a ship at sea, must be regarded as waste generated on board ships, within the meaning of the Regulation on shipments of waste. Such waste is, therefore, excluded from the said Regulation's scope until it is offloaded in order to be recovered or disposed of¹⁸⁷.
- Greece: When the public is not put in a position to actually participate in the environmental impact assessment for a project, a time limit cannot be imposed on the public to bring proceedings against the decision granting consent for the project¹⁸⁸.

Environment

- Italy: The Waste Framework Directive¹⁸⁹ and the Directive on the promotion of the use of energy from renewable sources¹⁹⁰ do not prevent national legislation which refuses the replacement of methane, as a power source for an electric power plant producing atmospheric emissions, with a substance derived from the chemical treatment of used vegetable oils, on the ground that the respective substance is not included in the list of categories of biomass fuels authorised for that purpose¹⁹¹.
- Italy: National legislation which classifies waste incineration facilities as 'strategic infrastructure and installations of major national importance' is compatible with the 'waste hierarchy' principle under the Waste Framework Directive¹⁹² as long as that legislation is compatible with the other provisions of that Directive which lay down more specific obligations. National legislation which revises upwards the capacity of existing waste incineration facilities and provides for the construction of new installations of that kind constitutes, within the meaning of the Strategic Environmental Assessment Directive¹⁹³, a 'plan or programme' likely to have significant environmental effects and must, consequently, be subject to a prior environmental assessment¹⁹⁴.
- The Netherlands: The shipment to a third country of a consignment of electrical and electronic appliances, initially intended for retail sale but returned by the consumer or sent back by the retailer to its supplier, constitutes a 'shipment of waste' within the meaning of the Regulation on shipments of waste read in conjunction with the Waste Framework Directive, where that consignment contains appliances whose good working condition has not been previously ascertained or which are not adequately protected from transport damage. Such goods, which have become redundant in the seller's product range and which are in their unopened original packaging, must not, unless otherwise indicated, be regarded as waste¹⁹⁵.
- Austria: Natural and legal persons directly concerned by the pollution of groundwaters can rely, before national courts, on certain provisions of the Nitrates Directive¹⁹⁶.
- Finland: Wolf hunting for population management purposes, the objective of which is to combat poaching, is not compliant with the Habitats Directive where the strict conditions for derogations from the protection system are not fulfilled. There are very strict limitations to the use of derogations for the hunting of wolves and other large carnivores, and the possibility to use hunting as a management tool for wolf conservation is very limited¹⁹⁷.

The organic logo of the EU aims to reassure consumers that products bearing it have been obtained in observance of the highest standards, in particular in the area of animal welfare²⁵³.

- United Kingdom: the marketing authorisation relied on in support of an application for a supplementary protection certificate concerning a new formulation of an old active ingredient, cannot be regarded as being the first marketing authorisation for the product concerned as a medicinal product. This is the case where that active ingredient has already been the subject of a marketing authorisation as an active ingredient.²⁵⁷ |

Major cases closed without a Court judgment in 2019

These concerned mainly:

- Belgium: incorrect application of EU rules concerning quantitative restrictions, by refusing German commercial plates for trucks transiting via Belgium to other Member States²⁸⁷.
- Belgium: incompatibility of Belgian advertising legislation in the health sector with EU advertising rules²⁸⁸.
- Germany: incorrect application of the freedom of establishment and of the free provision of services of other service providers due to reservation of certain approval services for some types of motor vehicles in favour of certain technical testing centres²⁸⁹.
- Germany: incompatibility of national legislation with EU rules on national accreditation bodies²⁹⁰;
- Spain: obstacles to the free movement of food supplements²⁹¹.
- Croatia: unjustified requirements imposed on the activities of driving schools²⁹²
- Latvia: restrictions to registration of right hand drive cars²⁹³.
- Czechia: non-conformity of national legislation with the Professional Qualifications Directive²⁹⁴;
- Austria: incompatibility of the national legislation with the Remedies Directive²⁹⁵;
- Poland: application of EU defence procurement rules²⁹⁶;
- Portugal: application of EU defence procurement rules²⁹⁷.

VII. IMPORTANT JUDGMENTS

Internal market, industry, entrepreneurship and SMEs

- Germany: restricted the free movement of goods by introducing both an infrastructure-use charge and relief from a motor vehicle tax for vehicles registered in Germany²⁹⁹.
- Greece introduced illegal additional requirements to the training of mediators, in breach of EU rules³⁰⁰.
- Italy: failed to publish a notice on the extension of a motorway concession, thus breaching public procurement legislation³⁰¹.
- *Austria*³⁰² failed to fulfil its obligations under EU law by setting restrictions on the location of seat, legal form and shareholding requirements for professional companies of architects, engineers, patent attorneys, veterinarians³⁰³.

2. Preliminary rulings

The Court gave the following preliminary rulings:

- Germany breached EU law by prohibiting commercial providers of search engines and commercial service providers which edit content of online press products, from making press products or parts of them available to the public³⁰⁴.
- Greece: Greek legislation prohibiting a monk who has the status of lawyer in another Member State from registering at the bar, on account of the incompatibility between the status of monk and the profession of lawyer, is contrary to EU law³⁰⁵.
- Lithuania: the Court clarified the conditions upon which in-house transactions concluded by public authorities are compatible with EU public procurement legislation³⁰⁶.
- *Hungary*³⁰⁷: EU law does not require a national court to set aside domestic rules of procedure conferring finality on a judgment, even if to do so would make it possible to remedy a domestic situation which is incompatible with EU law.
- Hungary: Minor restrictive effects, provided they are neither too indirect nor too uncertain, suffice to show the existence of a measure having equivalent effect within Article 35 TFEU. Such a measure needs to be justified on grounds relating to the protection of public health, and dispensing medicinal products on the basis of order forms other than nominative medical prescriptions may undermine public health³⁰⁸.
- Poland: National legislation cannot exempt commercial transactions financed with EU funds from the scope of the Late Payments Directive³⁰⁹.
- Poland: The issuance of a parallel import license cannot be conditional upon the imported medicine and domestic reference products sharing the same 'registration status', whether as reference or generic medicinal products. If the Member State of import can establish that the imported medicine and domestic reference product, 'without being totally identical', are manufactured with the same formulation, using the same active substance and have the same therapeutic effects, then the imported product may be granted a parallel import license on the basis of existing national marketing authorisation³¹⁰.

VIII. OUTLOOK

Important implementation work in 2020 includes:

- The Commission will continue to monitor the implementation of EU rules in the hydropower sector.
- Building on the work already launched in 2019, the Commission will keep assessing compliance of the measures adopted by the Member States to transpose the 2014 Public Procurement and Concessions Directives. It should be noted that Spain still has to complete transposition for both the Concessions and Utilities Directives (cases still pending before the Court) and that the compliance check for the Concessions Directive for Slovenia, which was delayed due to late transposition, still has to be completed.

4. Key infringement cases and referrals to the Court

The Commission opened 28 new infringement cases in 2019.

These, and other major ongoing infringement cases, include the following:

- Bulgaria: inadequate protection of consumers against unfair terms in contracts, in particular in payment order proceedings; certain creditors can obtain orders for immediate enforcement quasi automatically, with very limited possibilities for the consumers to prevent or challenge the enforcement based on unfair contract terms³¹⁴;
- France: the incorrect transposition of the free movement Directive³¹⁵ as regards the delivery of residence documents³¹⁶;
- Austria, Bulgaria, Greece, Spain, Italy and France: incorrect transposition of the Directive on criminal sanctions for market abuse³¹⁷;
- Poland: the new disciplinary regime for judges in Poland, which undermines the judicial independence of Polish judges by not offering necessary guarantees to protect them from political control³¹⁸;
- Slovakia: Racial discrimination against Roma children in education³¹⁹.

The Commission referred one case to the Court under Article 258 TFEU.

The case concerned the violation of the rule of law principles and Article 19 TFEU by the new disciplinary regime for judges in *Poland*³²⁰.

The Commission did not refer any cases to the Court under Article 260(2) TFEU.]

The case concerned the failure to transpose the Data Protection Law Enforcement Directive³²⁶ by Spain.

VI. EARLY RESOLUTION OF INFRINGEMENT CASES

Major cases closed without a Court judgment in 2019

These concerned:

- Croatia, Italy, Portugal, Slovakia and Sweden: incorrect transposition of the Directive on unfair commercial practices³²⁷;
- Spain: incompatibility of the Spanish procedural law with the Directive on unfair contract terms and breach of Article 47 of the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights (NIF 2015/2200)³²⁸;
- Austria and Poland: incorrect transposition of the Consumer Rights Directive³²⁹;
- Belgium: incorrect application of EU rules concerning civil judicial cooperation and requiring review procedures for the recognition of other Member States' executive measures³³⁰;
- Croatia, Cyprus, Estonia, Germany, Greece, Luxembourg, Malta, Poland, Portugal, Slovenia, and Spain: partial non-communication of the national measures of transposition of the 4th Anti-Money Laundering Directive³³¹.

VII. IMPORTANT JUDGMENTS

1. Court rulings

The Court gave the following rulings:

- Poland failed to fulfil its obligations under EU law, first, by establishing a different retirement age for men and women who were judges or public prosecutors in Poland and, second, by lowering the retirement age of judges of the ordinary courts while conferring on the Minister for Justice the power to extend the period of active service of those judges³³².
- Poland failed to fulfil its obligations under EU law by lowering the retirement age of judges of the Supreme Court³³³.

- Bulgaria: the Procedural Rights Directives³³⁴ apply to judicial proceedings leading to compulsory medical internment of persons having committed acts representing a danger to society. Because of their mental state, these persons are to be considered vulnerable persons for the purpose of the Directives. Persons suspected of having committed a criminal offence must be informed of their rights as soon as possible upon deprivation of liberty and, at the latest, before their first questioning by the police. A Member State's national legislation cannot prevent the exercise of the right to an effective remedy in case of violation of the procedural rights protected by the Directives³³⁵.

- Germany: the Austrian system of issuing a European arrest warrant, in which both the public prosecutor's offices and the courts are involved, is compatible with EU law³³⁶.
- Germany: EU law does not designate directly, or by analogy, the law applicable to the third-party effects of the assignment of claims³³⁷.
- Germany: the operator of a website that features a Facebook 'Like' button can be a controller jointly with Facebook in respect of the collection and transmission to Facebook of the personal data of visitors to its website³³⁸.
- Germany: a pre-ticked box cannot be considered valid consent to the processing of personal data. The information that the service provider must give to a user includes the duration of the operation of cookies and whether or not third parties may have access to those cookies³³⁹.
- Ireland: although a third-country national who is married to a Union citizen may lose a right of residence in a Member State following the departure of the Union citizen from the host Member State, the procedural safeguards laid down in the Free Movement Directive apply to the expulsion of that third-country national from the host Member State³⁴⁰.
- Ireland: an EU citizen who acquired in another Member State the status of worker for the activity he pursued there for a period of 2 weeks before becoming involuntarily unemployed retains this status for a further period of no less than 6 months. The citizen must register as a jobseeker with the relevant employment office. Any entitlement under national law to social security benefits or social assistance may be conditional upon a specified period of employment, if the same condition is applicable to nationals of the Member State concerned³⁴¹.
- Ireland: the public prosecutor's offices of a Member State, such as those of Germany, which may be subject, directly or indirectly, to directions or instructions from the executive, such as a Minister for Justice, in the issuing a European arrest warrant cannot be regarded as an 'issuing judicial authority'³⁴².
- Ireland: the Prosecutor General of a Member State, such as that of Lithuania, whose legal position affords him or her a guarantee of independence from the executive when issuing a European arrest warrant, is an 'issuing judicial authority'. When the competent issuing judicial authority under national law is not itself a court, the decision to issue such a European arrest warrant must be subject to court proceedings, which meet the requirements of effective judicial protection³⁴³.

- Spain: the requirements stemming from the principles of effectiveness and ex officio review of unfair contract terms apply also to proceedings for a European payment order. Therefore, the courts seized with a request to issue a European order for payment must request from the creditor additional information on the contract terms in order to assess the possible unfairness of such terms³⁴⁴.
- Spain: immunity implies lifting the pre-trial detention measure imposed prior to the election of the person concerned as member of the European Parliament, allowing him or her to take part in the inaugural session of the European Parliament. However, if the competent national court considers that the detention measure should be maintained after that person has become member of the European Parliament, it must, as soon as possible, request that the European Parliament waive that immunity³⁴⁵.
- France: mortgage loans reserved for employees of an undertaking and granted for private purposes fall within the scope of the Directive on unfair terms in consumer contracts³⁴⁶. The Court confirmed that the notion of ‘seller or supplier’ has to be interpreted broadly, and it is not necessary that the contract reflect a person’s main activity³⁴⁷.
- France: the prohibition on processing certain categories of sensitive personal data applies also to operators of search engines. The search engine operator has in principle the obligation to de-reference, if asked by the person concerned. To this end, the search engine operator must carry out a case-by-case assessment to verify if the publication of the ‘sensitive’ data and personal data on criminal convictions is strictly necessary to protect the freedom of information of internet users potentially interested in accessing this web page by means of such a search³⁴⁸.
- France: the right to be forgotten applies within the EU. Search engine operators have to take sufficiently effective measures to ensure the effective protection of this right, which does not necessarily apply outside the EU³⁴⁹.
- Latvia: the recording of a video of police officers in a police station while a statement is being made, and the publication of that video on a video website on which users can send, watch and share videos, are covered by the EU rules on data protection. Further, such recording and such publication on a video website may constitute a processing of personal data solely for journalistic purposes³⁵⁰.
- Luxembourg and the Netherlands: the French public prosecutor’s office is regarded as an ‘issuing judicial authority’, since the independence of French public prosecutors is not called into question³⁵¹.
- Poland: In a case concerning loan contracts concluded in Poland and indexed to a foreign currency, the unfair contract terms relating to the difference in exchange rates cannot be replaced by general provisions of Polish civil law in order to preserve the validity of the contract³⁵².
- Poland: the lack of transparency of a contract term is an important element in the assessment of its unfairness. The national courts must examine the unfairness of contract terms. Thus, in payment order proceedings based on a promissory note, national courts need to assess the promissory note agreement, even where national law or case law does not permit this³⁵³.

- Poland: a notary who draws up a certificate of succession at the unanimous request of all the parties to the procedure conducted by the notary does not constitute a ‘court’, and consequently, such a deed does not constitute a ‘decision’ but an ‘authentic instrument’³⁵⁴.
- Slovenia: when enforcing mortgages based on a directly enforceable notarial instrument, the preventive checks by notaries cannot replace effective judicial protection. Obstacles for effective remedies against such enforcement can be, for instance, costs for legal representation, the absence of legal aid or strict conditions for suspending the enforcement³⁵⁵.
- The United Kingdom: In assessing whether a Union citizen who is a minor has sufficient resources not to become an unreasonable burden on the social assistance system of the host Member State during his period of residence account is to be taken of resources placed at his or her disposal stemming from income obtained from the employment of his third-country national parent following the expiry of his residence or work permit³⁵⁶.
- The United Kingdom: the concept of a ‘direct descendant’ of a citizen of the Union does not include a minor who has been placed in permanent legal guardianship under the Algerian kafala system, because that placement does not create any parent-child relationship between them. However, where the EU citizen has exercised his/her right to free movement to a Member State other than the one of which he/ she is a national, the citizen’s Member State of residence must facilitate the minor’s entry to and residence in its territory as one of the ‘other family members’ pursuant to the Free Movement Directive³⁵⁷.

IV. INFRINGEMENT CASES

Key infringement cases and referrals to the Court

The Commission did not open new infringement cases in 2019 in this area.

Major ongoing infringement cases include the following:

- Denmark: failure to enforce several important provisions of the EU Control Regulation³⁷¹. The Commission considers that Denmark fails to ensure that all fishery products are weighed at landing and that mandatory catch registration documents record the quantities of each species present, including industrial by-catches. The most serious issues concern fisheries for industrial purposes. These deficiencies significantly undermine the accuracy of catch registration documents, which are necessary for quota deduction purposes and to prevent overfishing. In addition, Denmark does not ensure that the Commission is notified of the quantities of stocks actually landed, with a consequent risk to the sustainability objectives of the common fisheries policy³⁷².

The Commission did not refer any cases to the Court under Article 258 TFEU.

The Commission did not refer any cases to the Court under Article 260(2) TFEU.

VII. IMPORTANT JUDGMENTS

1. Court rulings⁴²⁰

There were no major Court rulings in 2019 in this area.

2. Preliminary rulings

The Court gave the following preliminary rulings:

- Belgium: if within 6 months the national authorities have not decided on the application for family reunification, they cannot automatically issue a residence permit to the applicant as they have to establish whether the applicant meets the requirements for residence in the host Member State in accordance with EU law⁴²¹.
- Belgium: in case of serious breaches of the rules of the accommodation centres, as well as violent behaviour by an applicant, a Member State cannot provide for a sanction consisting in the withdrawal, even temporary, of material reception conditions relating to housing, food or clothing in so far as it would have the effect of depriving the applicant of the possibility of meeting his or her most basic needs⁴²².
- Czechia and Belgium: The formal recognition of the status of refugee implies that the refugee concerned is a beneficiary of international protection for the purpose of the Qualification Directive so that he is entitled to all the rights and benefits provided for in this Directive. This Directive contains both rights equivalent to those set out in the Geneva Convention and rights providing greater protection which have no equivalent in that Convention⁴²³.
- Germany: an applicant 'absconds' within the meaning of the Dublin Regulation if he deliberately evades the reach of the national authorities in order to prevent the transfer. It may be presumed that that is the case if the transfer cannot be carried out due to the fact that the applicant has left the accommodation allocated to him without informing the competent national authorities, provided that he has been informed of his obligations in that regard⁴²⁴.
- Ireland: the fact that a Member State, designated as responsible for the examination of an application for international protection pursuant to the rules set out in the Dublin Regulation, has notified its intention to withdraw from the European Union in accordance with Article 50 TEU does not oblige the Member State with which the application was lodged to itself examine the application.⁴²⁵
- Hungary: Member States may authorise the family reunification of a refugee's sister only if she is, on account of her state of health, unable to provide for her own needs, provided that that inability is assessed having regard to the special situation of refugees and at the end of a case-by-case examination taking into account all the relevant factors, and that the refugee is providing the material support required⁴²⁶.
- The Netherlands: the Member State can withdraw residence permits from family members of a third-country national who have obtained their permits further to submitting falsified documents. The fact that the beneficiaries of those permits were unaware of the fraud is irrelevant⁴²⁷.

⁴²⁰ These rulings are almost exclusively handed down on infringement procedures.

⁴²⁶ TB, Case C-519/18

⁴²⁷ Y.Z. and Others, Case C-557/17

Migration and home affairs

- The Netherlands: an EU country may withdraw the supplementary benefit to a Turkish national who returns to Turkey and who holds, at the date of his departure from the host EU country, long-term resident status⁴²⁸.
- The Netherlands: applications for family reunification by a beneficiary of international protection cannot be rejected solely on the ground of the fact that the sponsor has not provided official documentary evidence of the death of the minor's biological parents and, consequently, that the sponsor has an actual family relationship with the minor, without taking into consideration the specific circumstances of the sponsor and the minor and the particular difficulties they have encountered before and after fleeing their country of origin⁴²⁹.
- The Netherlands: the competent authorities may, on grounds of public policy, reject an application for entry and residence on the basis of a criminal conviction imposed during a previous stay on the territory of that Member State concerned; in addition, they could withdraw a residence permit or refuse to renew it where a sentence sufficiently severe in comparison with the duration of the stay has been imposed on the applicant provided that the offence which warranted the criminal conviction is sufficiently serious to establish that it is necessary to rule out residence of that applicant and that those authorities carry out an individual assessment⁴³⁰.
- The Netherlands: national authorities may issue a return decision to a third-country national not subject to a visa requirement, who is present on the territory of the Member States for a short stay; such a decision could be justified if that national is considered to be a threat to public policy because he or she is suspected of having committed a criminal offence, provided that the offence is sufficiently serious in the light of its nature and of the punishment which may be imposed, to justify that national's stay on the territory of the Member States being brought to an immediate end and, second, those authorities have consistent, objective and specific evidence to support their suspicions⁴³¹.
- Austria: a Member State which granted subsidiary protection status when the conditions for granting it were not met based on incorrect facts must revoke it; the fact that the person concerned cannot be accused of having misled the Member State is irrelevant⁴³².
- The United Kingdom: a third-country national who in the past has been tortured by the authorities of his or her country of origin but no longer faces a risk of being tortured if returned to that country, but whose physical and psychological health could, if so returned, seriously deteriorate, leading to a serious risk of him committing suicide on account of trauma resulting from the torture he was subjected to, is eligible for subsidiary protection. This is the case if there is a real risk of this person being intentionally deprived, in his or her country of origin, of appropriate care for the physical and mental after-effects of that torture⁴³³.

VII. IMPORTANT JUDGMENTS

1. Court rulings

The Court gave the following rulings:

- Germany: failed to fulfil its obligations under EU law, at the 25th session of the Revision Committee of the Intergovernmental Organisation for International Carriage by Rail, by having voted against the position of the EU, and having publicly opposed that position and the arrangements for the exercise of voting rights⁴⁹⁰.
- Poland: failed to fulfil its obligations under the Directive on weights and dimensions in national and international traffic. The restrictions set on access to the Polish road network for vehicles complying with the maximum axle weights laid down in the Directive are not justified⁴⁹¹.

2. Preliminary rulings

The Court gave the following preliminary rulings:

- Belgium: The closure of an airport runway due to petrol spillage constitutes an ‘extraordinary circumstance’ when the petrol in question does not originate from an aircraft of the carrier operating that flight. It is a circumstance that could not have been avoided even if all reasonable measures had been taken⁴⁹².
- Belgium: When a passenger boards a train without a ticket, he concludes a contract with the carrier. This covers the situation where access to the train is free⁴⁹³.
- Czechia: Connecting flights that are the subject of a single reservation departing from a Member State to a non-Member State via another non-Member State: the air carrier of the first flight is, in principle, liable to pay compensation to passengers who suffered a long delay in the arrival of the second flight performed by a non-Community air carrier⁴⁹⁴.
- Germany: An exception from the use of tachographs does not apply to vehicles used for the carriage of live animals directly from farms to local slaughterhouses⁴⁹⁵.
- Germany: A Member State may refuse to recognise a driving licence which has been issued by another Member State, without a test of fitness to drive, on the basis of a driving licence issued by another Member State based on the exchange of a driving licence issued by a third country⁴⁹⁶.
- Germany: The direct award of contracts for public passenger transport services by bus that do not take the form of service concessions is not subject to the Regulation on public passenger transport services by rail and road⁴⁹⁷.
- Germany: An air carrier is only required to compensate passengers for a long delay caused by damage to an aircraft tyre if it fails to prove that it deployed all means at its disposal for limiting the delay of the flight⁴⁹⁸.
- Germany: The system of airport charges is to be approved by an independent supervisory authority and must be mandatory for all airport users⁴⁹⁹.
- Germany: Exception from the application of certain social legislation covers only vehicles that are used exclusively, during a particular transport operation, for the purpose of delivering items as part of the universal postal service⁵⁰⁰.
- Italy: The provisions of the Regulation on public passenger transport services by rail and road, which govern the award of public service contracts, do not apply to award procedures carried out before 3 December 2019⁵⁰¹.

VII. IMPORTANT JUDGMENTS

1. Court rulings

The Court gave the following ruling:

- Greece: The Court of Justice ruled that Greece's application of a reduced excise duty rate on the spirit drinks, Tsipouro and Tsikoudia, produced by systematic distilleries, as well as the application of a super-reduced rate to those spirits produced by small occasional distillers, are both incompatible with EU law⁵⁴⁸.

2. Preliminary rulings

The Court gave the following preliminary rulings:

- Denmark: The Court of Justice clarified that EU law cannot be relied on for abusive or fraudulent objectives. In such cases, national authorities and courts must refuse a taxpayer the exemption from withholding tax on profits distributed by a subsidiary to its parent company, even if there are no domestic or agreement-based provisions providing for such a refusal⁵⁴⁹.
- Germany: the Court of Justice clarified that the VAT exemption for school and university education does not cover driving school tuition provided by a driving school for the purpose of acquiring driving licences for vehicles in categories B and C1, even if the objective of such tuition is not purely recreational, since possession of such licences is liable to meet, among other things, professional needs⁵⁵⁰.
- Germany: The Court of Justice clarified that customs authorities may require that an applicant for the status of an 'authorised economic operator' provide them with the tax identification numbers concerning solely the natural persons who are in charge of the applicant or who exercise control over its management and those who are in charge of the applicant's customs matters, and the details of the tax offices responsible for the taxation of all those persons⁵⁵¹.
- Germany: The Court of Justice clarified that legislation of a Member State which effectively taxes dividends paid to foreign pension funds at a higher rate than dividends paid to domestic pension funds is contrary to the free movement of capital as established by Article 63 TFEU⁵⁵².
- Germany: Where EU customs regulations require providing a specific indication of the country of origin for a product (in this case, cultivated mushrooms that had been relocated during the growing process), the country of origin is that where the product was harvested and that indication as such cannot be regarded as misleading consumers. In such circumstances, no obligations may be imposed on the food business operators to provide information additional to the indication of the country of origin in order to prevent any alleged risk of misleading consumers⁵⁵³.
- Latvia: The Court of Justice clarified that where the customs value of goods, such as the medicinal products at issue in the dispute in the main proceedings, is calculated by applying the deductive method (this is one of the methods used for calculating the customs value), the competent national customs administration must, in order to identify 'similar goods', take into account any relevant element.⁵⁵⁴

⁵⁵⁴ Case C-1/18 SIA Oribalt Rīga v Valsts ieņēmumu dienests, EU:C:2019:519.

Taxation and customs union

- Lithuania: The Court of Justice clarified that the exemption from excise duty applies to denatured ethyl alcohol contained in cosmetics or mouthwashes which are nevertheless consumed as alcoholic beverages, although not intended for human consumption, even if the importer of products from another Member State labelled them with a view to increasing the sales⁵⁵⁵.
- Lithuania: The Court of Justice held that Member States should tax as cigars or cigarillos tobacco products with an outer wrapper of natural tobacco partially covered, at the filter, by an additional paper layer, which may make them visually similar to cigarettes⁵⁵⁶.]

VIII. OUTLOOK

Important implementation work in 2020 includes:

Indirect taxation:

- focus on infringements with a strong impact on ensuring fair and effective taxation and the climate and health objectives of the EU;
- monitoring cases affecting the economic situation of businesses or aiming at removing distortions of competition in the internal market.

Direct taxation:

- assess the conformity of national measures with EU rules on exchange of information on taxation. This will concern in particular the Directives on:
 - the automatic exchange within the EU of information relative to financial income, including dividends and capital gains, and account balances⁵⁵⁷;
 - the mandatory automatic exchange of information in the field of taxation⁵⁵⁸;
 - country-by-country reporting of information by multinationals to tax authorities⁵⁵⁹;
 - access to anti-money laundering information⁵⁶⁰;
 - mandatory automatic exchange of information in the field of taxation in relation to reportable cross-border arrangements⁵⁶¹.
- assess the conformity of national rules against tax avoidance and practices that directly affect the functioning of the internal market⁵⁶²;
- assess the conformity of national rules on tax dispute resolution mechanisms in the EU⁵⁶³.

Customs:

- carry out a series of monitoring activities in cooperation with the Member States to help them implement the Union Customs Code, which now has been applicable for more than 3 years;
- focus on cases and subject matters where there is a significant financial impact and where it is considered that our exclusive competence in the area of customs needs to be defended.]

I. METHODOLOGY AND EXPLANATIONS

ANNEX I — POLICY AREAS

1. Complaints

First chart: New complaints received from members of the public (2015-2019)

This shows the number of public complaints the Commission registered in the given policy field in 2015-2019.

Second chart: Public complaints open at year-end

This starts with the number of open complaints at the end of 2018 (first line)⁵⁶⁴. The second line shows the number of new complaints registered in 2019. The third line shows the number of complaints on which the Commission took a decision in 2019. The fourth line shows the number of complaints open at the end of 2019 (calculated by taking the first figure, adding the second and subtracting the third).

Third chart: New complaints registered in 2019: main policy sectors

The number of registered complaints for the current reporting year is broken down by policy sector. In general, this breakdown shows the three policy sectors in which the most complaints were received in 2019. Four (or more) policy sectors are mentioned if two (or more) policy sectors attracted the third highest number of complaints. The number of sectors covered varies according to the breadth of each policy area.

2. EU PILOT

First chart: New EU Pilot files (2015-2019)

This shows the number of EU Pilot files the Commission opened in the given policy area in 2015-2019.

Second chart: New EU Pilot files opened in 2019: main policy sectors

The number of new EU Pilot files opened in the current reporting year is broken down by policy sector. This breakdown shows the three policy sectors in which the most EU Pilot files were opened in 2019.

Third chart: EU Pilot files: resolution rate for policies in 2015-2019

The resolution rate in the given policy field is the percentage of EU Pilot files handled in that field for which the Commission accepted the Member States' responses. The chart shows the resolution rate for the last 5 years.

⁵⁶⁴ In some instances a difference between the figures from the preceding annual report may be due to delayed, double or erroneous registration at the moment of extracting statistical data.

3. OWN-INITIATIVE CASES

New own-initiative cases

This section contains a list of the most important infringement cases the Commission launched in the given policy area in 2019. The list is not exhaustive.

4. INFRINGEMENT CASES

First chart: Infringement cases opened on 31 December (2015-2019)

These figures include all procedures the Commission initiated in the policy area by sending a letter of formal notice under Article 258 TFEU. It covers letters sent in 2019 or before, irrespective of the stages the cases have reached. Only cases which have not yet been closed by a formal decision are shown.

Accordingly, this number includes all cases that, on 31 December of the years 2014 to 2019:

- were in the pre-litigation phase (letter of formal notice, reasoned opinion or decision on referral to the Court under Article 258 TFEU);
- were pending before the Court under Article 258 TFEU and Article 260(3) TFEU;
- the Court had ruled on but where the Commission could not yet confirm that the Member State had implemented the judgment correctly;
- were in the second pre-litigation procedure (letter of formal notice or referral decision under Article 260(2) TFEU);
- were pending before the Court due to a second referral; and
- the Court had ruled on for the second time but where the Commission could not yet confirm that the Member State had implemented the second judgment correctly.

This figure does not include, for example, open EU Pilot files in the policy area. It also does not include EU Pilot files for which the Commission had already rejected a Member State's response but had not yet sent a letter of formal notice under Article 258 TFEU.

Second chart: Infringement cases open on 31 December 2019: main policy sectors

This shows, for the given policy area, the sectors in which the most infringement cases were still open on 31 December 2019. The number of sectors shown varies according to the breadth of each policy area.

Third chart: New infringement cases opened in 2019: main policy sectors

This shows, for the given policy area, the sectors in which the most infringement cases were launched in 2019.

Key infringement cases and referrals to the Court

This section has three parts:

Part a) shows the number of new infringement cases launched in the policy area in 2019 and lists the most important new cases under Article 258 TFEU.

Part b) lists the cases which the Commission referred to the Court solely under Article 258 TFEU by 31 December 2019. The cases submitted to the Court under Article 258 and 260(3) TFEU are discussed in the 'transposition of directives' section (see below).

Part c) contains the cases which the Commission referred to the Court under Article 260(2) TFEU by 31 December 2019.

5. TRANSPOSITION OF DIRECTIVES

First chart: New late transposition infringement cases (2015-2019)

This shows the number of letters of formal notice sent to Member States under Article 258 TFEU for missing or partial notification of national measures transposing directives in the given policy area. This figure is already included in the total number of new infringement cases initiated in the policy area in 2019, so it should not be added to the figure shown in the first chart of the general statistics section.

Please note that not all of these new infringement cases for late transposition were necessarily still open on 31 December 2019. For example, if the Commission opened a late transposition infringement procedure in March 2019 by sending a letter of formal notice, this would be added to the new infringement cases even if the Commission closed the case in October 2019 as a result of the Member State notifying complete transposition.

Second chart: New late transposition infringement cases opened in 2019: main policy sectors

This shows the policy sectors in which the most late transposition procedures were launched in 2019.

Key infringement cases and referrals to the Court

This section has two parts:

Part a) lists, for the given policy area, the most important directive(s) over which the Commission had to launch infringement procedures against a relatively high number of Member States.

Part b) lists the cases which the Commission referred to the Court under Article 258 TFEU and Article 260(3) by 31 December 2019.

6. EARLY RESOLUTION OF INFRINGEMENT CASES

Major cases closed without a Court judgment in 2019

This section contains a list of the most important infringement cases the Commission closed in the given policy area in 2019 without a Court judgment. The list is not exhaustive.

7. IMPORTANT JUDGMENTS

This section contains two lists:

- The first list contains the Court's most important judgments in the given policy area in 2019. These judgments are almost exclusively handed down under Article 258 or Articles 260(2) TFEU.
- The second list contains the most important preliminary rulings that the Court issued to the Member State's judiciary in the given policy area.

These lists are not necessarily exhaustive.
